

Built in ftp client

A way to easy communicate with ftp servers other than Adobes own webhosting, if you are already locked in to a host of your sites,(I can not change my site locations), it's complicated to export the whole site as html every time you make a change, the idea of having single page html export here is good also, but a built in ftp client like Dreamweaver have would make life easier.